

Camillo Salvi

📍 Milan, IT ✉ camillo.salvi@feem.it 📞 +39 351 9757762

ABOUT ME

I'm Camillo Salvi, a junior researcher in the Econometrics of the Energy Transition Lab at Fondazione Eni Enrico Mattei. My passions lie in econometrics, statistics, and environmental and natural resources economics.

EDUCATION

MS in Econometrics and Quantitative Economics

Utah State University, Logan, UT, United States

- ✓ Related coursework: Econometrics 1&2&3 (PhD), Introduction to Machine Learning (MS), Advanced Machine Learning (MS), Deep Learning (MS), Introduction to Probability (MS), Introduction to Mathematical Statistics (MS), Mathematical Economics 1&2 (PhD), Microeconomics Theory 1&2 (PhD), Modern Regression Methods (MS), Bio Statistics (MS), Dissertation Credits (MS)
- ✓ Thesis: Exploring Resilience: Insights From the Western U.S. Drink Tourism Industry During the COVID-19 Pandemic

BS in Economics and Business Administration

West Virginia Wesleyan College, Buckhannon, WV, United States

- ✓ Awards: BS, cum laude
- ✓ Awards: Recipient of Outstanding Economics Student Award

PRESENTATIONS - CONFERENCES

- ✓ Exploring Resilience: Insights From the Western U.S. Drink Tourism Industry During the COVID-19 Pandemic, AAEA, New Orleans, LA, United States (July 2024)
- ✓ AAEA Data Visualization Competition, AAEA, New Orleans, LA, United States (July 2024)

WORK EXPERIENCE

Research Assistant

Logan, UT, United States

- ✓ My research focused on examining the resilience of the drink tourism industry in the Western United States in response to the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Instructor

Logan, UT, United States

- ✓ Lectured "Introduction to Natural Resources and Regional Economics" during the Fall 2024 semester

Internship - Greater Calling & Children's Hopechest

Palmer Lake, CO, United States

- ✓ Operated with vulnerable and orphaned communities in third-world countries to alleviate poverty. Developed fundraising projects to enhance the self-sustainability of impoverished communities.