Presentation

Since January 2022, I'm Junior Assistant Professor of Economic Statistics at the Department of Economics, Management and Statistics of the University of Milano-Bicocca (UniMiB), Italy. Moreover, since February 2022, I'm Associate Researcher at Fondazione Eni Enrico Mattei (FEEM) in Milan, Italy. In 2021 I was post-doctoral Research Fellow in Environmental Statistics at the Department of Economics of the University of Bergamo (UniBg), Italy. Since December 2021, I teach Introduction to Time Series Analysis at the M.Sc. in Statistics & Economics at UniMiB.

In 2021 I earned a Ph.D. in Statistics at UniMiB, with a dissertation on time series models for air quality monitoring and assessment of environmental protection policies in Lombardy, Italy. In 2017 I graduated in Statistics & Economics (M.Sc.) at UniMiB and in 2015 I graduated in Economics (B.Sc.) at UniBg.

My research activities and interests focus on environmetrics, statistics and econometrics applied to environmental, energy and socio-economic fields. In particular, I do research on temporal, spatiotemporal and geostatistical modeling of air quality and airborne pollutants, statistical learning and model selection for geostatistical and time series models, on the analysis of policy interventions for environmental protection, and on macroeconometrics applied to environment and sustainable development issues.

I have been visiting researcher for several months at international research centers, such as the Statistics Department at Harvard University (USA), the Leibniz University of Hannover (Germany), and the University of Aveiro (Portugal). Eventually, since 2018, I have collaborated as a researcher/data analyst on several projects in partnership with Italian research institutes, such as Associazione Economia & Sostenibilità, CGIL Lombardia and Istituto per la Ricerca Sociale (IRS).
